The CCIA Safety Committee Presents:

A SAFETY ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION

UNDERSTANDING OSHA'S MULTI-EMPLOYER CITATION POLICY

Presented by Richard Voigt, Esq., McCarter & English, LLP

It is typical for OSHA to cite several employers for the same violation involving the same hazard on multi-employer worksites. OSHA pursues this enforcement policy even though only one of the employers created/was responsible for the cited hazard. How does OSHA decide which employers should be cited? What steps can an employer take to minimize the chances for being cited by OSHA in multi-employer situations? What are the potential implications of the OSHA citation policy for civil litigation relating to accidents on multi-employer worksites? Attorney Richard Voigt of McCarter & English, LLP will address these and other questions at the next Safety Roundtable.

The Safety Committee will meet immediately after the Roundtable.
